

THE VAZQUEZS

Jorge planted his first church while still in seminary, and planted two churches before joining Global Fellowship. During 16 years with Global Fellowship, he has effectively mobilized church-planters into 9 Mexican states. Jorge now has 12 paid workers and another ~70 lay leaders actively involved in church-planting.

Over the past 3 years, Jorge has been transitioning the 4 churches he pastors over to successors. He now focuses his full attention on the new missionary training school he established in 2015. In June 2016, the first class of graduates completed their studies and moved to the field.

The missionary training school blends classroom learning with practical experiences and includes two missionary journeys through central and southern Mexico to see each worker.
